College Corridor Named for Credit Union

*Orangeburg-Calhoun Technical College honors
South Carolina Federal Credit Union for financial support*

July 30, 2007 - (N. CHARLESTON, S.C.) – A hallway at Orangeburg-Technical College now bears a new name, in recognition of support it received from South Carolina Federal Credit Union.

South Carolina Federal, one of the 100 largest credit unions in the nation, donated $20,000 to Orangeburg-Calhoun Technical College in Orangeburg, S.C., to help underwrite costs for development of its new Math and Science Building.

In appreciation, OCTC honored the credit union with lifetime naming rights to a hallway in the Math and Science Building that leads to its auditorium.

Penny Summers, OCTC director of planning, research and development, accepted South Carolina Federal's gift from Raoul Sailer, South Carolina Federal's Orangeburg branch manager, and Thetyka Husser, community relations coordinator. South Carolina over the next three years will fulfill its pledge to OCTC.
